Have you heard of the Palimpsest Cities project? This innovative project is all about educating the public on the rich cultural heritage of these unique cities, while also providing a mobile guide that can be accessed by anyone, anywhere. With gamification and digital storytelling at the forefront, the project offers an exciting and interactive way to learn about these important sites.

On February 15th, InnovED organized a highly successful online workshop on Gamification, featuring four distinguished experts in the field. The two-hour event, conducted via Zoom, attracted 26 participants from across Europe.

The online workshop outlined an introduction to the Gamification process and application in different fields such as history and heritage education. The keynote speakers from different areas of expertise focused on Gamification techniques and methodology in education in collaboration with e-learning tools and Storytelling and Artificial Intelligence approaches in reshaping education. Gamification scenario for field trip route was presented.

A post-seminar evaluation survey was conducted, revealing that the participants found the seminar to be highly relevant and informative, expressing a high degree of satisfaction with the quality of the presentations. The event provided an excellent platform for exploring the latest trends and developments in gamification, and attendees were impressed by the level of expertise and knowledge of the guest speakers.

Join us on this exciting journey to discover the hidden layers of history and culture that make up our multilayered cities. With the Palimpsest Cities project, the past is just waiting to be uncovered!
